

International Anti-nuclear Camp & Network Gathering in Middle Saxony/Germany

July 30 - August 3, 2012

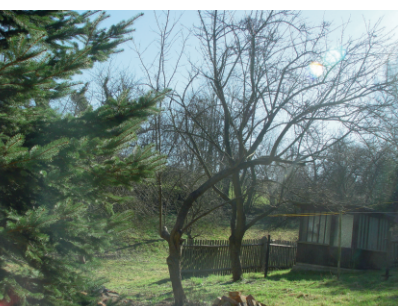

You are invited to join the international Anti-nuclear Camp and Network Gathering in Döbeln, Middle Saxony, in Germany. The event starts on Monday, July 30, 2012. You are welcome to help to set up the camp the weekend before - tents, food preparation, info signs... We are planning to also build some D.I.Y. camp infrastructure such as compost toilets, outdoor kitchen, solar shower starting on July 9-18 - your participation will be welcome, too!

It will be five days of workshops and presentations, skillsharing and networking, excursions and public events. We plan to visit an abandoned uranium mine at the Czech border not too far from the camp. There we will meet critics and learn about the challenges connected with uranium mining.

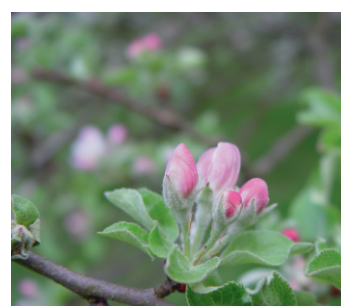

As the anti-nuclear camp will benefit from the participants' contributions, you are welcome to offer presentations and workshops on topics you are working on. We also ask you to consider to share your experiences, knowledge and skills in actions, campaigning or background work. We will set up a proposal of a programme for the camp and gathering including your workshops, lectures and other activities.

We, people organizing the gathering, are active with several anti-nuclear grassroots groups and organizations across Europe. Though we arranged Network Gatherings before several times in different countries (France, Germany, Slovenia, Finland, Czech Republic), this will be the first time for us to organize an anti-nuclear camp. Thus, forgive us for the mistakes we will make, and support us preparing the event! ;)

The camp will take place on the land of the project house in Döbeln. At the same site you will also see the International Network Office and the Morsleben Archive, a great independent collection of documents on the Morsleben nuclear waste dump. The ecological garden will provide us with vegetables and fruits.

Nuclear Heritage Network

It's an international informal network of anti-nuclear activists. We want to connect activists worldwide, provide information regarding nuclear issues and anti-nuclear activities in many countries and develop projects and campaigns. Big actions like the Olkiluoto Blockade or the 2010 Baltic Sea Info Tour were results of our gatherings.

Anti-nuclear Action Summer

We invite you to make this summer an anti-nuclear action summer. A number of international events and actions will take place between July and September in Central and Northern Europe, partly organized by activists of our network, too.

An anti-nuclear camp will take place in Lubiatowo, in the Pomerania Region of Poland on July 23 -29 close to the proposed site of a first Polish atomic power plant. Taking a bus on July 28 will bring you on time to the international gathering in Germany.

Directly from the camp in Germany, you can travel together with other activists to Finland to the Blockade and Action Camp in Olkiluoto. We will take bus and ferry to arrive there for the protest camp on August 6-13. On August 11 a publicly announced blockade of the Olkiluoto NPP will take place.

An anti-nuclear sailing trip and bike tour starts ten days later in Stockholm across the sea to Greifswald (D). Between August 26 and September 9, the sailing boat and at the same time a bike tour on land will inform, do actions and meet local activists.

Join the Anti-nuclear Camp & Network Gathering in Döbeln!

To be here on time for the camp, you should arrive at least one day earlier, July 29. You can travel by train to Döbeln, by coach to Chemnitz or Leipzig or by car on freeway A14 to Döbeln or on freeway A4 to Hainichen and highway B169.

Please announce your participation as early as you know. Some days before the camp start we will send you the booklet with programme and information on the gathering. You can stay at the camp and help cleaning up until August 4.

Costs and food

We will ask you for donations based on your own appreciation for participating in the camp. A basic setting of vegan food will be provided at the camp. We will cook together. If you have additional needs, you should contact us before. There will be also drinks available like lemonade and juices, which are not for free.

If you can't afford your travel costs you should contact us to talk about a possibility to take over a share of your travel expenses.
